

STOCKMAR lets children experience the world around them through art, and even create their very own. This artistic process in turn helps improve children's mental agility and artistic abilities by promoting creative interplay between their senses and their powers of imagination.

Artistic activity creates a sense of inner peace that serves as a contrast to the often one-sided, performance-based expectations children face in everyday life, resulting balanced development.

STOCKMAR product range

For decades, the name STOCKMAR has stood for the highest caliber of art supplies. We take a comprehensive, smart approach to quality through: the careful selection of raw materials, first-class processing and our products' excellent color, paint and modeling properties. We believe that quality fosters artistic freedom which positively impacts individual development. ### I want to color

The cores of STOCKMAR colored pencils are based on STOCKMAR's specially developed manufacturing process and a well-balanced combination of damp and dry elements. This gives the colors a soft and powerful drawing quality as well as a dust-free, robust character. With each of the artist's strokes, be it a strong line or light shadowing, STOCKMAR colored pencils will produce the precise intended effect. The colors offer a limitless range of expressive possibilities and promote creativity.

I live color

With STOCKMAR colored pencils, you can experience the sheer pleasure of drawing by taking in the world around you in all its nuanced shades and putting them to paper.

"In the colored reflection we have life" (Goethe). STOCKMAR colored pencils are based on Goethe's extended color wheel and thus perfectly coordinated. They correspond to the range of colors also featured in other STOCKMAR products.

I am an artist

What makes STOCKMAR colored pencils so unique are their transparency and glazing properties. Thanks to the precisely proportioned high-quality micro-crystalline waxes, each stroke interacts with the light to produce a depth that goes beyond the borders of the page and creates a spatial effect in the texture of the image. This effect is especially prominent when applying the glazing technique, which involves layering colors on the paper, and makes STOCKMAR colored pencils the perfect material for the artistic development of any artist.
